It's all about what you can't see

Stylemark Access Panels are glass fiber reinforced gypsum ceiling access panels that are aesthetically pleasing, because they are designed to blend seamlessly into a drywall ceiling. No longer do you have to hide your attic and utility access in the closet. Stylemark Access Panels come in models for residential and commercial applications, with two residential and four commercial sizes. Residential models incorporate a gasket seal to provide an energy-saving seal to keep attic temperatures from infiltrating the living space. Stylemark panels are perfect for jobs where access is required at regular intervals. The panels can be used in new and retrofit construction. The unit consists of a surround frame with pre-drilled fastener holes and a drop-in door.
